

New Divers Wanted

Here at Canary Divers we are enthusiastic about our diving so what better way to get more people diving than by word of mouth. If you are an existing diver and recommend a friend, colleague or family member to undertake a PADI open water course then we have some great benefits for you.

Once your recommended person has paid their course fees you will be given £25 of Canary Divers vouchers to spend in our shop.

As an existing diver the benefits could be even better for you. PADI are currently running an incentive scheme to get more people diving. Recommend a friend and providing they complete their course by March 2008 then you can be entered into monthly draws to win fantastic prizes from some of the best suppliers around or even a holiday!

Check out our website for details and links to the PADI page detailing their scheme.

Discover Scuba Diving

We have now extended our range of PADI courses to include the highly recommended Discover Scuba Diving course. This course includes 2 pool sessions where you will learn the basics of Scuba Diving. We will then take you on a dive in open water at Capernwray and even pay your entry fee and registration for you!

At the end of the course you will be presented with a DSD card and if you decide that you want to sign up for the Open Water course then any skills you have completed during your DSD can count towards that course.

2008 Holidays

With our final holiday of the year (to Gozo) less than 3 weeks away, we are now starting to plan our holidays for 2008. We are looking to organise a holiday on a live-aboard in the Red Sea towards the end of the year with a holiday earlier in the year probably to the Maldives. Let us know if you are interested in either of these.

2008 Trips

If you have a recommended dive site for trips during 2008 then why not let us know about it? We are currently looking at a number of options including Scapa Flow as well as a number of regular favourites.

Congratulations

This month we congratulate Neil Long on completing his Divemaster course. Neil has been diving with us for a couple of years and has become a very respected diver of the team.

Congratulations also to Kev Shaw who has just completed and passed his PADI Staff Instructor course.
